· • • # .

5

ABSTRACT

A probabilistic diagnostic system is validated. A diagnostic sequence is generated from a diagnostic model. The diagnostic sequence is evaluated to determine whether the diagnostic sequence provides an acceptable resolution to a problem. This is repeated for additional diagnostic sequences from the diagnostic model. It is determined whether a predetermined number of diagnostic sequences provide an acceptable resolution. When it is determined that the predetermined number of diagnostic sequences provide an acceptable resolution, the diagnostic model is accepted.